PROFILE

Passionate Uruguayan engineering student looking for my first job at an IT company. I consider myself a committed person when it comes to goals while constantly trying to learn and apply new knowledge in every field.

In regards to my academic studies, I can mention my experience in imperative, functional and logical programming paradigms, as well as in object-oriented programming. I have attended courses on front-end development using HTML, CSS and Javascript. I am an experienced developer of .NET platform making use of C#. In addition, I've worked in database management with SQL. I have learnt about design principles, design patterns and agile methodologies like SCRUM.
